Back to the Future for Venture Capital

We're Here!

Well August is finally here, and not a moment too soon. So with just a few days to go, get ready to feel the buzz of CFUnited, the premier ColdFusion Conference! In this issue, we'll be featuring a few recent successful projects including a job for the Center for Creative Emergence, some hot news about CF9 and Solr Indexing, a few more important CFUnited updates including a new pre-conference class available, an article concerning actions and the unintended consequences that often result, as well as a little bit about TeraTech's monthly Maryland ColdFusion User's Group (MDCFUG) meeting!

TeraTech Creates Creativity in Business Website

TeraTech recently created the creativity in the Business Conference Website (<http://www.creativity-conference.com/>) for the Center for Creative Emergence. The site includes a CMS for updating content and allows attendees to register online. Creative Emergence's CEO, Michelle James said "TeraTech was very professional and responsive to our needs."

The conference is on Saturday, October 4, 2009 from 9:00am – 5:30pm and is being held at the Center for Digital Imaging Arts (CDIA) in Georgetown, Washington, DC.

The conference includes Experiential Breakout Sessions, Compelling Thought Leader Panels, Real-time Ideating/Crowdsourcing...

What I like About CF9...

Solr Indexing

I am excited about the up coming ColdFusion 9 release of Solr free text search – ti replaces the Verity free text search that has been in ColdFusion for over eight years! TeraTech has been using the open source Java Solr search on a project for the American Psychological Association and we have been impressed with how it efficiently handles searching millions of documents; this, of course without the extra costs that Verity requires for large search sets. We are also looking forward to being able to directly call Solr instead of doing a slow CFHTTP call to access it. ColdFusion 9 will support advanced replication and caching, and also comes with a Verity-to-Solr migration tool.

Maryland ColdFusion User's Group

The Maryland ColdFusion User's Group (MDCFUG) is for all levels of developers who want to learn more about ColdFusion and the latest internet developments. The meetings are held on the second Tuesday of every month, where food and drink are provided, as well as a traditional closing raffle of prizes. The meetings are 100% free so come out and take advantage!

CFUnited Updates

Special Guest Speaker:

Janine Driver, The “Lyin” Tamer

Do you have it all?

CFUnited is bringing in a celebrity to speak at the conference. If you didn't get to Janine Driver in DC in June, then here's your next chance! She is hilarious and has a ton of great tips for business professionals; among other things, she will show you how to climb the ladder in your career. She's trained many in the government and law enforcement agencies, and now she's reaching to business professionals like us.

And for all of you “Lie To Me” show fans: Janine Driver's mentor is Dr. Paul Ekman, the inspiration behind the new hit TV show. Her topic will be “The New Executive Presence,” which can be found at <http://cfunited.com/2009/topics#topic-360>

Speaking Times:

Thu. 3:15PM-4:15PM

Fri. 9:00AM-10:00AM

New Pre-Conference Class:

“Getting Started with CFBuilder, for those coming from Dreamweaver, CFStudio, HomeSite, etc.”

Instructor: Charlie Arehart

You've heard the buzz about ColdFusion Builder (code-named Bolt and referred to hereafter as CFBuilder). Now get a walkthrough (hands-on from your own laptop if you bring one) from someone who's been down the same path, coming to CFBuilder from other non-Eclipse-based CFML editors like Dreamweaver, HomeSite, and CF Studio.

Back to the Future for Venture Capital

By Miki Saxon,
July 16th, 2009

Hooray! Finally! It's about time.

For more than a decade my angel investor and many of our colleagues have been bemoaning what happened to the venture world. Call it the takeover of the walking investment banker.

It started when the name partners wanted to kick back a bit. That made sense, but unfortunately they went to Wall Street for their new people and hired a lot of the hot young turks who were great at manipulating money, but had never really produced anything...
